is a symbol of love and hope.*

Abuse can be physical, emotional, financial or sexual in nature—that you find degrading, limiting, upsetting or painful.

Abuse is also . . .

Surprisingly Common. Recent national studies show that one out of every four women in Canada is assaulted in her home environment.

Dangerous. Assault of women by their partners is responsible for 61% of all female murders in this country.

A Persistent Problem. Experts say that children who grow up in homes where abuse occurs are more likely to become victims of abuse or abusers themselves.

Transitional & Housing Support Program

To help abused women rebuild their lives by assisting them to establish a network of supports, and to find and maintain housing.

The program serves women who have experienced domestic violence and are trying to establish a life separate from their abuser, while remaining in the community.

The program also works with women living with their abuser to make choices to increase their safety, and the safety of their children.

Our Guiding Principles:

- First consideration will be for the safety and well-being of the woman and her children.
- Program will assist women in identifying the choices and resources available to them and their children.
- Program will respect a woman's right to make her own choices.

You are not alone and you are not to blame!
